

THE TERRORS OF THE TINY TADS

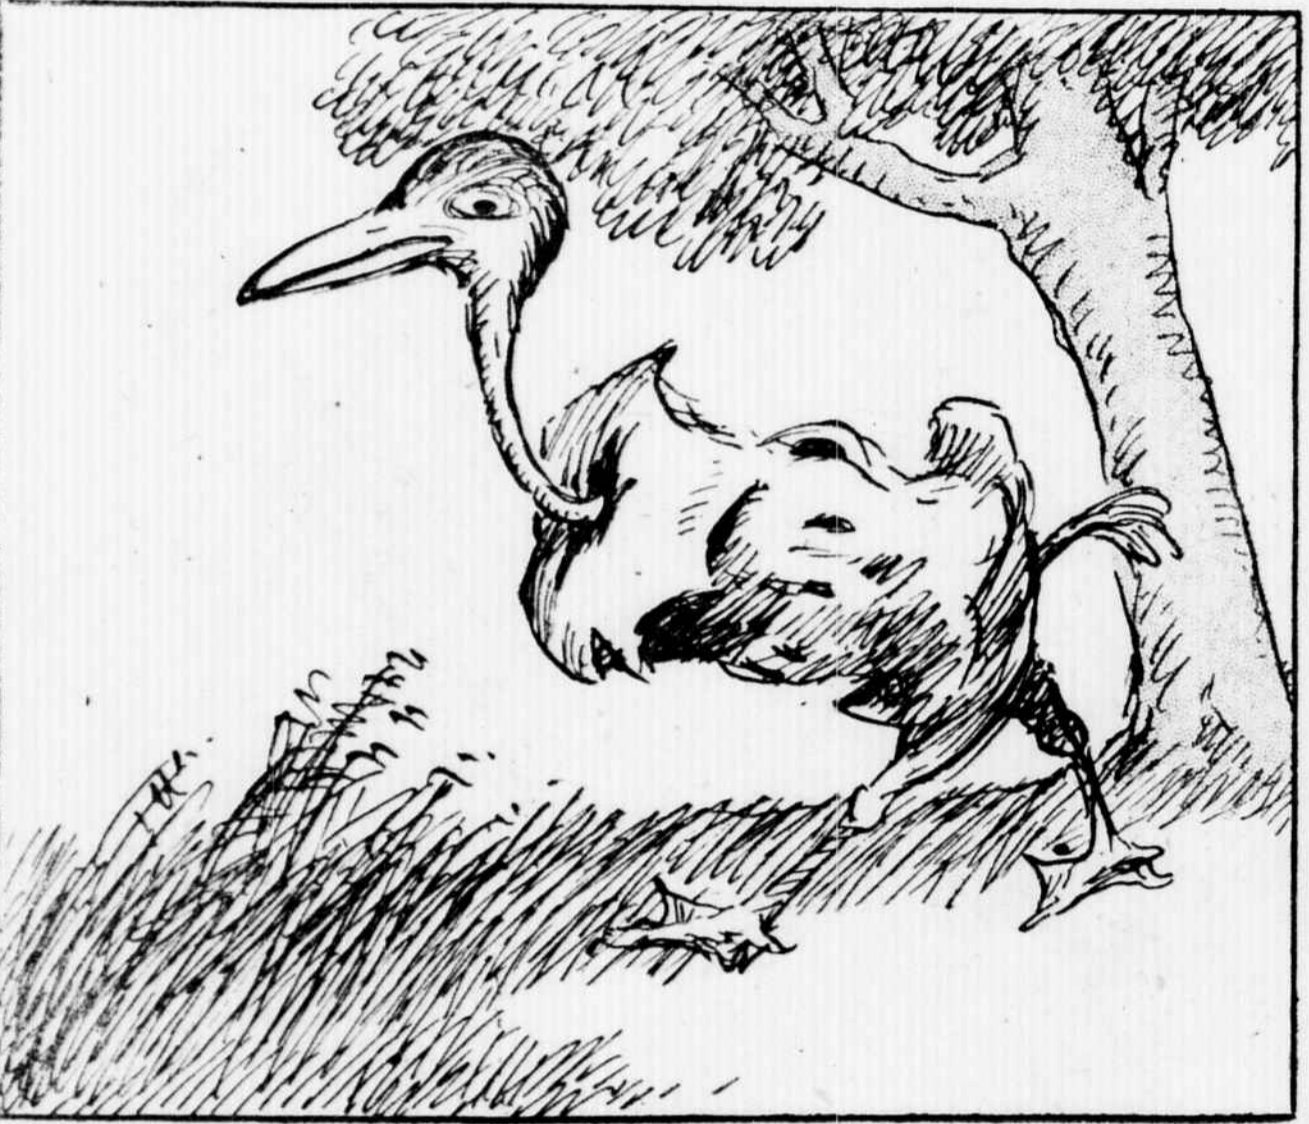

1—"A rainbow!" cry the Tiny Tads. "Let's all go over there! Perhaps we'll find the pot of gold that's under it somewhere!"

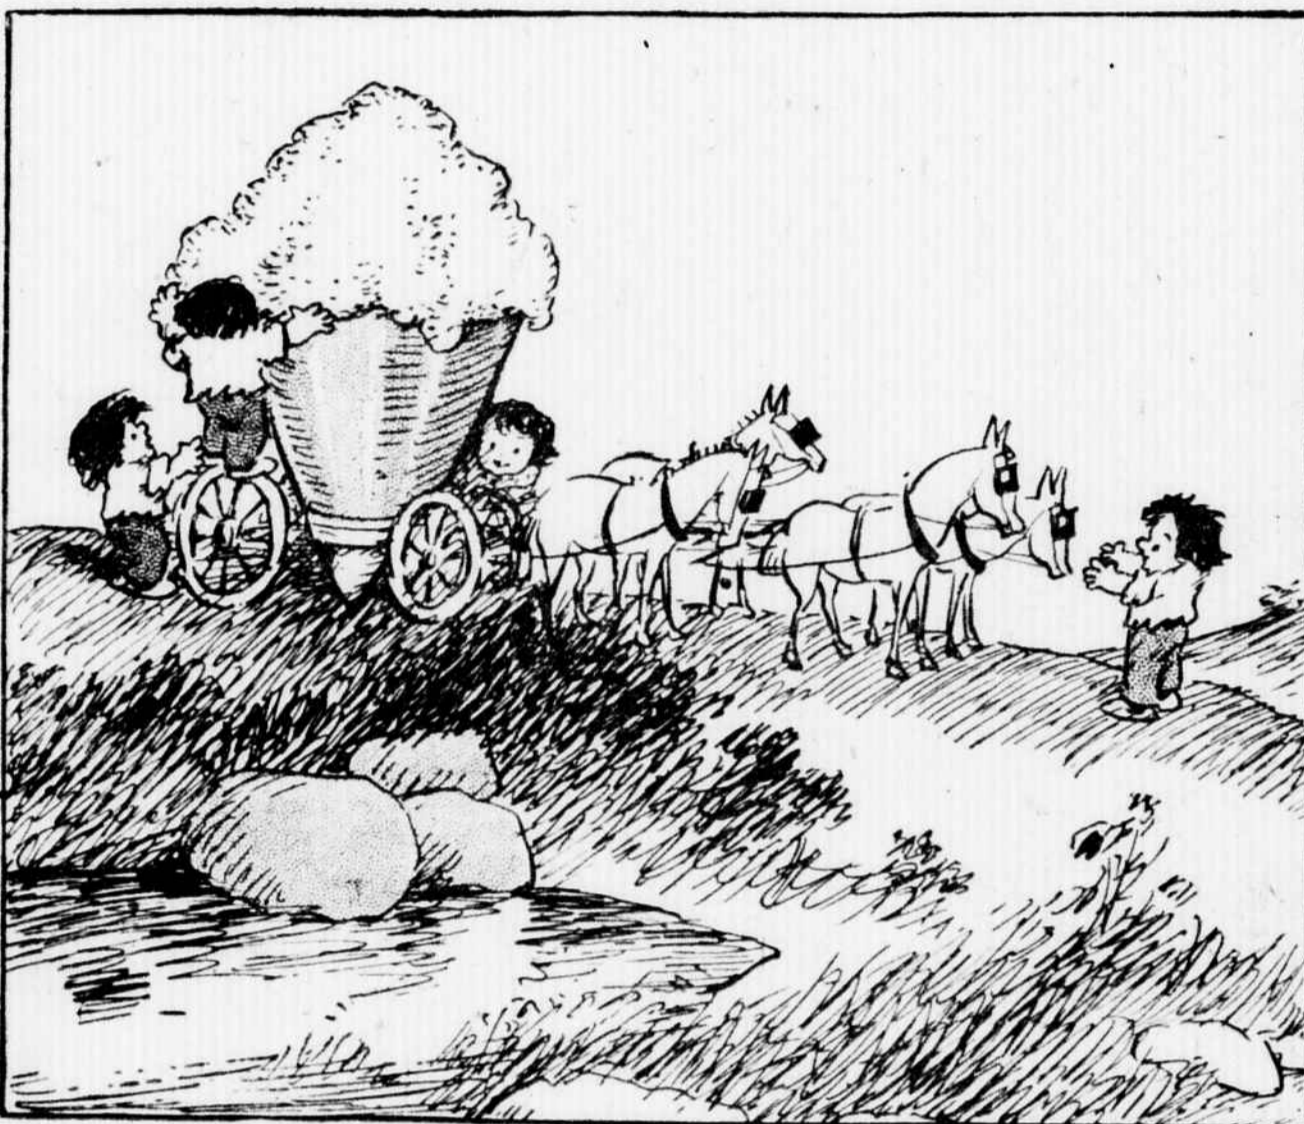

2—And so they trot across the fields, up to the rainbow gay. When, all at once, their hopes are turned to bitterest dismay.

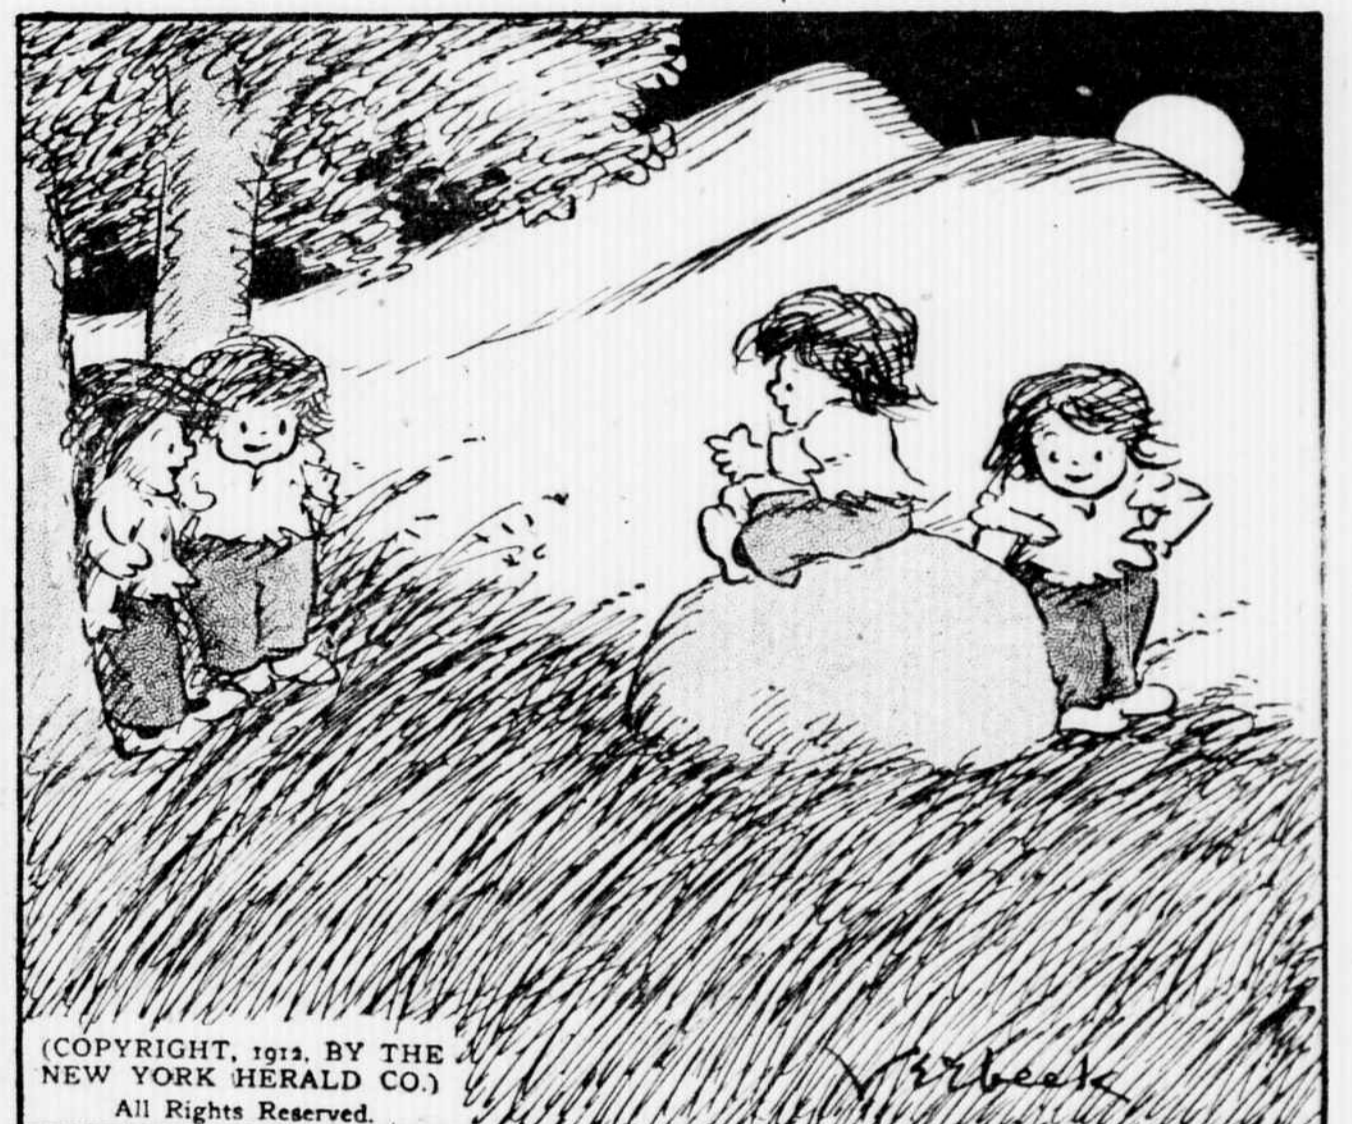

3—"There is no pot of gold," they cry, "that was a snake we saw! A Rainboaconstrictor, and he's opening his jaw!"

4—But now an Applecormorant attracts the hungry snake. And while he tries to catch the bird the Tinies swim a lake.

5—And on the other side they find an ice cream coach and four. We'll eat that ice cream cone," they cry, "till we can eat no more.

6—And now the day is mostly done. "Say, fellows," says a Tad, "That Tallyhoky-poky was the best we ever had."
